This wild, otherworldly architecture is the backdrop for a futuristic yet traditional house in Kuala Lumpur. A Parisian interior designer, a Kenyan-born Canadian architect, and a New York lighting designer collaborated on this 32,000 ft\(^2\) residence for three generations of a prominent Chinese-Malaysian family.

Once in a while, a lighting designer meets an architect/interior designer who fully appreciates the synergies possible with early collaboration, mutual goals, and close coordination in detailing. This beautiful project exemplifies the benefits of such a fortunate relationship.”

— Jason Neches